AGAINST PROHIBITION.

Hon. Thomas Settle Addresses Large Crowd—Respects to Pritchard.

NEWBERN, N. C., May 22.—The second anti-prohibition speech of the campaign was delivered here last night by the Hon. Thomas Settle. The speech was enjoyed by all, as the speaker is a thorough master of irony, ridicule and sarcasm, and his thrusts were very laughable. The courthouse was well crowded, and the speaker was introduced by Mayor James A. Bryan. He discussed the proposition from the local option view, said there was no disagreement as to the evils of over-indulgence, that the sale could only be controlled by regulating it and not by prohibition, that "with all this is a substantial division of the people on the prohibition subject, it has never prohibited," and gave Maine as an example.

He denied that there was the great moral question as to whether or not you believe; said that increased taxes, increased criminal dockets blind tigers and a disrespect of the law were the results of prohibition, and so the moral side of it was bad.

The part of his speech, however, that excited laughter and applause was when he took up Judge Pritchard and "roasted" him. He said Judge Pritchard had said (he Settle) was dead, and he was politically, and had been for ten years, but that he had plenty of company; that the whole Republican party under Judge Pritchard's management was with him, dead; that when Judge Pritchard got in control of the party it was a majority party, and when he turned it into a minority party by 70,000, Judge Pritchard had said, "he would never be a candidate for office again; certainly not, with his fat life job and Federal pay; that he never heard of a judge leaving his bench to go into a political campaign. His criticism of Judge Pritchard was bitter, full of irony and ridicule.

leigh and lodged in the Wake jail, a special commitment order being granted by Governor Glenn. The negro some days ago shot and dangerously wounded Policeman Arpes, of Louisville, because of a grudge he had against him. He fired two shots to bring the officer from his house and then shot him down as he came out.

The preliminary hearing was held before the Mayor of Louisville yesterday and Davis was committed to jail in default of $1,000 bond, which there was a strong probability the negro's father would be able to raise for him. It was this possibility that stirred the feeling against him and gave rise to the reports of mob violence to that extent that a strong guard was placed about the jail for the night and the prisoner hurried off to Raleigh this morning in custody of J. H. Southall and other deputies.

Wise Talks by the Office Boy

A country druggist had a sign out in front of his store, "Pure Drugs and Magazines." A fellow came along and said, "Give me a pure magazine; I'm tired of these muck-rakers." Say, don't you think it's about time we all quit knocking and begin to see some of the good in things? You hear so much about graft, it's a wonder everybody doesn't want to get a hand in the pork barrel. I guess this agitation has done a lot of good, so now let's all turn in and see the good for a while and quit hollerin' wolf. There's a lot of good in the clothing this spring, especially in the spring suits. You can see the good style, the good needlework and good trimmings standing out like the quills on a porcupine, but not a fret in a barrel of them. I know this is true of our spring suits. They are the jimmies we ever had, and then some. But in and pipe the good stuff. Don't forget the big sale starts to-day. Spring suits, values ranging from $16.50 to $27.50, reduced to one price—now $14.65. There's a great quantity of them, but only two or three sizes of a pattern—that's why they're reduced. But in and pipe the good stuff and furnishings. Come in to-day, or next week. WILLIE.

Neither Fear Nor Drugs Killed Dr. Marshall—Autopsy Shows.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Positive proof that Dr. William H. Marshall died of rabies and not from fear or from the effects of the sedatives administered by his physician was obtained by means of an autopsy performed on the body yesterday afternoon. The presence of the germs of rabies in large numbers in the dead man's brain and spinal cord and the total absence of indications of the effects of the drugs satisfied the coroner and his experts that there was no basis for the sensational charges of the Medico-Legal Society that Dr. Marshall either poisoned or frightened to death.

In the course of the autopsy Dr. Ira Von Gelson, rabies expert of the health department, who was taking out part of the spinal cord for microscopic examination, punctured his leg. Fortunately, the wound was not deep. A small, sharp, pointed object, which was sufficient to inoculate Dr. Von Gelson with the rabies germ, and as quickly as he could finish his work he hurried back to the research laboratories to begin the Pasteur treatment on himself.

The autopsy was performed in an upper chamber of the Marshall home in Brooklyn. Coroner Brewer, himself a physician, had been advised early in the day by Robert H. Elder, assistant district attorney of Kings county, that Dr. Marshall had requested that the death of Dr. Marshall be made the subject of official investigation. It had been reported to the society, Mr. Bell said, that death was due to opiate administered, combined with the fright caused by the warnings that his days were numbered.

It had been learned from Dr. Cullinan that the sedatives used to prevent the convulsions of the patient were morphine, hyoscyne and chloroform. The most careful examination of the brain and viscera of the effect of any of the substances named, and Dr. Hartung declared without hesitation that it was certain Dr. Marshall had not died of poison. In order to settle any possible doubts that might be raised in the future, however, Dr. Hartung removed parts of the brain and important viscera for chemical and microscopical tests.

Workings of a Press Clipping Bureau.

It has come to be a necessity that any one whose name ever appears in a newspaper must be a subscriber to press clippings, still there are few who understand anything about the workings of such a bureau. People take press clippings because in no other way can they learn how many papers throughout the country print stories concerning them. They must have a bureau to read every paper published. Then every line concerning them reaches their hands.

There are some forty press clipping bureaus in the United States, but before becoming a subscriber one should understand just what benefits are to be derived. This is necessary because in order to read 5,000 different publications a bureau must have a large area of working space and employ many people. Some bureaus work in one room with three and four workers. The largest bureau in the world, that is the Burrelle Press Clipping Bureau in New York, reads every publication issued, has 2,000 square feet of space, and has 100 workers.

There are dozens of departments in the Burrelle Bureau, but the one spectacular feature of the work of these readers is that they read the papers. These readers sit before an inclined desk on which the paper rests. The reader scans the column, her pencil following the lines with lightning-like rapidity. The moment she sees the name of a client, down goes the pencil and a mark is put under the name. The next part is that the reader must bear in mind something like 60,000 names. It is a feat of memory that almost passes human understanding, and it is done day in and day out. The reader's mind is kept active on these subjects in a daily school of instruction. For an hour each day the readers sit silently before their desks while a forewoman takes up a list of customers, and one by one calls off the names and explains their wants. It takes ten days, an hour each day, to complete the list. On the eleventh day the forewoman begins over again. So the routine goes on, week in and week out.

Any one who hasn't a press clipping bureau or any one who hasn't the latest in the world about writing a note addressed simply "Burrelle, New York City" which will put them in immediate touch with every paper published

HIS FINAL APPEAL FOR ALL TO VOTE

Chairman Oates Urges Prohibition Forces to Renewed Activity Until the Election.

MANY SPEAKERS ON STUMP

Whirlwind Campaign Planned for Closing Days—Both Sides Claim Victory.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
RALEIGH, N. C., May 22.—From State prohibition headquarters a final appeal is being mailed out from Chairman John A. Oates to the prohibition workers in every precinct in the State, impressing upon them the necessity of the hardest possible work and vigilance at the polls.

Saturday, Sunday and Monday, the three last days before the State election, are to be characterized by special activity directed from the State headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League. Dr. John E. White is to be in Greensboro Sunday. Governor Glenn is to be in Winston-Salem Sunday and in Thomasville and Lexington Monday for his final prohibition speeches. Judge J. C. Pritchard is to be in Winston Sunday, and with him will be ex-Governor Charles B. Aycock. Hon. Seaborn H. Wright, of Georgia, will be at Rocky Mount Saturday and in Raleigh Sunday. Mrs. Curtis, another noted prohibition speaker, will also speak at the same meeting in Raleigh. W. D. Upham, the noted lay evangelist of Georgia, is billed for Lillington Saturday and Lumberton Sunday.

There are a variety of opinions as to the outcome of the election. The general expectation is that the vote throughout the State will be light, with the anti-prohibition side suffering most from nonvoters. Claims by prohibitionists as to majorities range all the way from 5,000 to 50,000 majority in the State, about 20,000 being probably the estimate of the most conservative. On the other hand, the anti-prohibitionists are making a determined fight, both with speakers and through the mails and in personal work. The biggest crowds assembled for or against prohibition have been for the speeches of Hon. Thomas Settle and Hon. James D. McNeill, in opposition to the pending bill. Wake county is sure to give a large majority against prohibition, and it will be no surprise to many if Raleigh township even gives a full vote with anti in the majority. In fact, leaders of the opposition here are sanguine of a majority against prohibition in the State at large by at least a few thousand majority.

crease of $5,964 over the preceding year. Under the caption of the endowment fund, the report says that when it became known that Hugh T.
